A story about a song

It was almost impossible to watch the sunset and not dream, that's what he said to her. They were listening to the song as they stood to dance to the song by Mulatu Astatke. He stood there and watched her move her flexible body and at that moment he knew she was relaxed and gave him so much peace. The melody of the song matched the sunset and he woke up to find that he was dreaming.
